THE HISTORY OF THE RED WINGS AND OLYMPIA

Professional hockey in the Detroit area dates back to 1926 when a Detroit syndicate purchased the Victoria (British Columbia) Cougars of the National Hockey League and moved the club to the Motor City. Playing their home games in nearby Windsor, the team finished in the league cellar.

But in the 1927 season things showed improvement. Ten-year-NHL star Jack Adams began his illustrious 35-year career with Detroit as Manager and Coach. The team moved into the gleaming new OLYMPIA STADIUM on the night of November 22, 1927. With a new leader and a new home, the Cougars played .500 hockey and finished in fourth place. But success in the late twenties was only moderate. In the 1930-31 season a change of nickname to "Falcons" failed to improve their 4th place finish.

Meanwhile in Chicago, industrialist James Norris was operating the semi-pro Chicago Shamrocks. He was itching to own an NHL franchise. Despite owning the Chicago Stadium, Norris was frustrated in his attempts to buy the Black Hawks, Major Fred McLaughlin's entry in hockey's premiere league.

Informed that, despite their second place finish in the Depression year of 1932-33, the Detroit franchise was on shaky ground financially, the patriarch of the Norris family successfully bid on and purchased both the hockey team and Olympia Stadium.

The name "Falcons" was supplanted by "Red Wings" with the insignia a winged automobile wheel . . . similar to that of a team called the Winged Wheelers with whom Mr. Norris played in his earlier years in Montreal. The 1933-34 season saw the "new look" Norris franchise under Jack Adams win the league championship . . . the first of 13 such triumphs for the red and white team. In 1935-36 they won it all — the NHL championship and their first of seven Stanley Cups.

Over the years, some of the most illustrious names in hockey have been identified with the Red Wings. Twenty-two Red Wings are enshrined in the NHL Hall of Fame. More than 80 Red Wings have enjoyed All-Star status. Detroit players have captured upwards of 40 individual league trophies.

The most amazing string of titles in NHL history was recorded from 1948-49 to 1954-55 when the Red Wings won a record seven consecutive league championships. In that span they captured four Stanley Cups.

The team and the Stadium have remained in the Norris family continuously. Following the death of the elder Norris in 1952, his daughter, Marguerite Riker became President and is the only woman to hold that position with an NHL team. During her tenure the Red Wings finished in first place in each of three seasons and won the Stanley Cup twice. In 1955, Marguerite relinquished the presidency to her brother, the current president, Bruce A. Norris.

Just as the names and faces change, so the Stadium, too, is constantly being updated. From its first event, a rodeo, until the present, Olympia Stadium has established itself as one of the nation's top entertainment centers. A never-ending parade of events are programmed around the Number One attraction — Red Wing hockey.

Olympia has echoed to the cheers of millions of fans who have watched ice shows, championship fights, wrestling, roller derby, the circus and music revues featuring the top stars of the sports and entertainment fields. Modernization has changed the facade of Olympia year after year. Gradually the arena of 10,000 capacity has become a 14,200-seat facility that played to a record 16,197 hockey fans March 14, 1973 and a capacity crowd of 16,200 Pink Floyd rock show patrons on June 23, 1973.

Air-conditioned private boxes, the Olympia Room club, comfortable theatre-type seats and other precedent-setting innovations have kept this freeway-surrounded stadium with its acres of parking lots in the forefront of the nation's entertainment scene. Olympia Stadium . . . the Norris family . . . the Detroit Red Wings . . . synonymous with champions.

BRUCE A. NORRIS – PRESIDENT AND OWNER

A member of one of hockey's most prestigious families, this 49-year-old dynamo proudly carries on the traditions of his famous father and elder brother . . . the late James "Pop" Norris and the late James D. "Big Jim" Norris. A college player in his years at Yale, Bruce spans the NHL's two eras – pre and post expansion. Equally at home with league veterans and newcomers, his vast hockey knowledge and business expertise is a combination his colleagues recognize as ideal for leadership. He is now in the second year of his current term as Chairman of the NHL Board of Governors, a post he has held on two occasions. Bruce has played a vital role in many of the monumental moves that have zoomed the league to its lofty pinnacle in the sports spectrum. Like his kin, a man of vision, he is vigorously engaged in making his dream of world-wide competition a reality.

Equally well-known in the upper echelons of business, he has not only maintained but greatly expanded the far-flung and diversified operations of the original family business, the Norris Grain Company. Mr. Norris is also Chairman of the Board of a new and flourishing Miami-based development concern, Norin Corporation. While his withering pace of global travel makes him a familiar figure in many world capitals, he is in constant touch with Hockey Club and Stadium personnel. And on game nights, rarely is he missing from his favorite spot – the hallowed ground at the corner of Grand River and McGraw – Olympia Stadium – the home of his beloved DETROIT RED WINGS.

MARGUERITE NORIS RIKER – EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

As with her brother Bruce A. Norris, Marguerite Riker's service to the Detroit Hockey Club also spans both the pre- and post-expansion eras of the National Hockey League. She was the President of the Red Wings immediately preceding him. Marguerite was named to that post on December 14, 1952 upon the death of her father, the late James Norris, and held it until October 27, 1955 when her brother took the helm.

During her tenure, the Wings had some of their most successful years, finishing first all three seasons and winning the Stanley Cup twice. In fact, if one looks closely at the "Cup", he will find that she is the only woman to have her name engraved on "the symbol of hockey supremacy".

Marguerite Riker also holds the distinction of being the youngest chief executive in NHL history and the only woman to hold such a position.

Mrs. Riker is a graduate of Smith College in Northhampton, Massachusetts and spends much of her time at her farm in Connecticut.

Executive Vice-President Marguerite Norris Riker looks on approvingly as the then coach, and now Assistant General Manager Jim Skinner expresses his feeling toward the Stanley Cup. The year was 1955 and Mrs. Riker was then the President of the Red Wings.

JIM BISHOP – EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

As Executive Vice President of the Detroit Hockey Club, Jim is aggressively engaged in the job of coordinating the overall operation of the organization with the various leagues with which the club is affiliated.

Endless committee meetings and policy sessions, at the league and club level find Jim representing the Red Wing interests. His numerous successes in both sports and business have provided him with the background needed for his important role with the organization.

Well known and respected at the executive level throughout the sports world, Jim is constantly exploring the latest methods and techniques to achieve the Hockey Club's goal of success.

LINCOLN CAVALIERI – VICE PRESIDENT

Linc first became associated with the Norris organization back in 1951. He has been with the Detroit operation for the past 16 years, the last three as General Manager of Olympia.

As a Vice-President of the Red Wings, Cavalieri primarily coordinates their operations with those of the stadium in the areas of seating, concessions, TV and Radio and publications. It has been under Linc's guidance that many of Olympia's recent appearance changes have taken place.

Well known throughout the Midwestern wrestling and fight circles, he also takes a great interest in the ice shows that play Olympia each year. Married and the father of four children, Linc is an avid golfer and consistently shoots in the 70's.

ARTHUR "SNAPPER" NORRIS – VICE PRESIDENT

The 1973-74 season is Art Norris' first in Detroit as a Vice-President to the Hockey Club and the Stadium. But don't let the title fool you. He is here to learn the hockey and stadium business from the ground up in order to be of greater assistance to President Bruce A. Norris.

"Snapper", as he is called by all who know him, grew up in Chicago and has since moved to Florida where he attended college and has become involved in the family business interests out of the Miami office.

While in Florida, he developed an interest in powerboat racing. What started out as a hobby has since become a passion, and the Red Wing Racing Team, under Snapper's leadership, has made quite a name for itself in ocean powerboat racing circles.

At twenty-two, Norris will be one of the youngest executives ever in the NHL and his services will be put to good use during the '73-74 campaign.

JOHN A. ZIEGLER, JR. – VICE PRESIDENT

John has been legal counsel to the Wings and Olympia since 1960. A graduate of the University of Michigan Law School and a member of the Detroit law firm of Ziegler, Dykhouse, Wise and Huth, he has been quite active within the Wings System.

Since 1966, John has served on the Boards of Directors of the parent club as well as the American and Central League affiliates. Also in that year, he became Detroit's Alternate Governor on the National Hockey League's Board of Governors, a position he still holds today. In addition, John was the Secretary of the NHL in 1968-69.

A long-standing love for the game, dating back to his minor hockey days, coupled with an excellent legal and business background, have made him an invaluable asset to both the Hockey Club and its President, Bruce Norris. John is currently involved in the development of the new European Professional Hockey League.

NED HARKNESS – GENERAL MANAGER

Life has its ups and downs and if there is any doubt, just have a chat with the Red Wings General Manager, Ned Harkness. An extremely successful coach at both Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and at Cornell University, Ned was hired to coach the Red Wings three years ago and a scant five months later was faced with the biggest challenge of his career – that of General Manager.

From the role of the N.C.A.A.'s most successful hockey coach to that of a man faced with gigantic personnel decisions, unprecendented competition for talent and widespread opposition to his different methods and ideas, was an abrupt transition that would have forced most people to throw in the towel. But for Ned, adversity has only made him more determined to see the job through. It has always been thus. A man of strong convictions, he chucked his physical instructor's role in the Air Force in favor of a crack at Air Crew and wound up in the Battle of Britain. He also found time to fight his way to the Middle Weight Boxing championship of the R.C.A.F. At R.P.I., Ned coached lacrosse and won the N.C.A.A. title in that sport before taking on the challenge of building a hockey team at the school. The new varsity sport was a disaster at the start but in four years, Ned, the eldest son of Yale's All-America William Harkness, had his team in the N.C.A.A. finals.

Then it was on to Cornell and another masterful job of building a winner. Employing methods that were revolutionary, Ned's superbly conditioned "Big Red" rolled to 29 straight victories on their way to the E.C.A.C. and N.C.A.A. championships.

With word of his coaching success spreading he was sought by more than one N.H.L. team. In 1970 Ned came to Detroit amid instant opposition. One furor after another has been laid at his doorstep . . . most of them undeserved. Like his close friend, the late Vince Lombardi, Ned has many sides – a tough, unyielding, sometimes profane outer shell; a man with a hectic timetable for work that leaves no time for socializing; and an exhausting personal drive in search of perfection. Yet, deep inside, Ned is a man who has compassion to a fault and who is quietly proud of his family who share his ups and downs without complaint.

"I'm trying to win the Stanley Cup – not a popularity contest" is the way the Wings' General Manager abruptly dismisses the all-too-frequent personal attacks. But, with the progress graph swinging steadily upward, with the gains outnumbering the setbacks, maybe success and popularity will arrive together.

TED GARVIN – COACH

"He's tough . . . but he's fair. You forget how hard he works you when you win." These comments, from some of his former players, describe the portly new coach of the Red Wings. The formula has been a successful one in his previous coaching assignments and, hopefully, will work the same magic with Detroit. A high scoring right winger in his playing days at Indianapolis and St. Louis in the American Hockey League, and later with his hometown entry in the International League, the native of Sarnia, Ontario was lured back to hockey by a boyhood friend who sought Ted's help with the Minor Hockey program. Provincial titles with Midget and Junior "B" teams attracted the attention of the Port Huron Flags (now Wings). Inheriting a last place team, "Cannon", as he was dubbed by his players, turned Port Huron into a consistent winner. A fiery competitor, Garvin never backed down from officials when he doubted their decisions. Frequent league reprimands never blunted his enthusiasm nor his determination. He backed his players to the hilt – and he won. In five years Garvin's teams made the playoffs five times, the finals four times and captured the Turner Cup twice. Now he has the job of giving Red Wing fans those kind of results. Ted and his wife, Genevieve, have three daughters. Sarnia . . . an hour's drive from Detroit . . . is their permanent home.

DOUG BARKLEY
GENERAL MANAGER AND COACH – LONDON LIONS

The extremely popular ex-Red Wing player and coach has been diligently preparing himself for any and all assignments he is called on to handle within the Detroit organization. And the newest role for which Doug Barkley has been recently tapped is an extremely important one – General Manager and Coach of the London (England) Lions, Bruce A. Norris' entry in the proposed new European Professional Hockey League.

Doug over came the most traumatic experience a hockey player can suffer and has relentlessly pursued a career that has seen him succeed as a scout, administrator, coach and general manager. His background makes him the logical choice to handle the launching of the new London team.

Doug will be the key man in the organization with able assistance from Managing Director Joe Besch, who has served as Interim President of the proposed new league, and B.B.C. Sports Announcer Alan Weeks, who will be the Director of Promotions and Public Relations for the Lions.

Doug has also handled other European assignments in the interest of the Red Wings.

JIM SKINNER
ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

The 1973-74 season finds Jim in a new position as the assistant to General Manager Ned Harkness. From 1958 through the conclusion of last season, he served the Wings as Chief Scout and Farm Director.

First as a player, then as a coach, and more recently as an executive, Jim's service to the Red Wings dates back to the pre-1950 era. Although never making it to the NHL as a player, he achieved the ultimate in success in his rookie year as a coach of the 1954-55 Red Wings, who won both the league championship and Stanley Cup.

Although the title is new, many of the duties will remain the same, as the constant search for hockey talent goes on. His great knowledge of the game and astute ability to judge talent will continue to be of exceptional value to Ned Harkness and the rest of the Wings Staff.

A native of Selkirk, Manitoba, Jim now lives in Windsor, Ont. and when he can find time, escapes to his summer cottage at Lockport, Manitoba with his wife and children.

JACK PATERSON
ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT AND
DIRECTOR OF SCOUTING – UNITED STATES

Jack's association with the Detroit organization began back in 1960 when he was assigned scouting responsibilities. In 1967, Jack was elevated to Director of Scouting-United States, and now, starting with the 1973-74 season, he assumes additional duties as Administrative Assistant to General Manager Ned Harkness.

Prior to joining the Red Wings, Jack worked in the AHL, IHL, and WHL as a referee and spent one year in the NHL as a linesman.

Although the title implies scouting within the United States, Jack has traveled the world in search of new talent. One trip in particular, to Sapporo, Japan in 1972 for the Olympic Games, resulted in the signing of Thommie Bergman.

While at home, Jack stays very close to the U.S. college hockey circuits. During the winter, you may find him in Denver, Boston, or even Houghton, Michigan. At Christmas, however, he is in Detroit wearing the hat of Business Manager at the highly successful Great Lakes Invitational College Hockey Tournament held annually at Olympia. Much of the GLI's constant growth can be attributed to Jack's tireless efforts. Married and the father of two children, Jack resides in the Detroit area year round.

RED WING SCOUTING STAFF

DAN SUMMERS
Chief Scout

When Jim Skinner was elevated to Assistant General Manager, the void created was capably filled with the appointment of Dan Summers as Chief Scout. Dan has been a Red Wing scout since 1965 and had been Head Scout for Western Canada since 1967. Along with the new title, Dan inherited one of the largest scouting staffs in the NHL, six full-time and five part-time, as well as one of the most progressive. Under Jim Skinner, Red Wing scouts were pioneers on college campuses and at World and Olympic Tournaments.

JACK EVANS
Head Scout–Estn. Canada

Jack Evans has spent sixteen of the last seventeen years with the Red Wing organization as a scout. He became Head Scout for Eastern Canada in January of 1972 and will continue to shoulder that responsibility this season.

PUBLIC RELATIONS STAFF

Responsibility for a myriad of functions within the hockey club falls on the Public Relations Department. From statistical data to programs, personal appearances to Press Conferences, the P.R. Department is many things to many people.

Public Relations Director John Bell is beginning his second season as head of the department with able assistance from Bruce Lahti, Mary Jo Atkinson, Jim Mackey, Morrie Moorawnick and a host of other people who form the game-night support group. John was a veteran broadcaster with WJR Radio before joining the Red Wings, and covered the full sports spectrum, including hockey, for the Goodwill Station.

Bruce, as Programs Coordinator, recently joined the staff after several seasons of being associated with the Great Lakes Invitational Tournament and the hockey program at Michigan Tech.

TRAINING STAFF

ROSS "LEFTY" WILSON, Head Trainer
DAN OLESEVICH, Head Equipment Manager-Assistant Trainer
TOMMY LYNCH, Clubhouse Assistant

When Ross "Lefty" Wilson joined the Red Wing organization as a goaltender during the 1944-45 hockey season, little did he know that some 29 years later his name would be a household word around Detroit.

Following a minor league career that took him to Omaha and Indianapolis, Lefty arrived in Detroit in 1950 as Assistant Trainer and spare goaltender. With the retirement of Honey Walker in 1958, the loquacious Mr. Wilson was elevated to Head Trainer.

Now in his 16th year as the head man, Lefty ranks second only to Frank Pace of the New York Rangers in seniority among NHL trainers.

The job has changed significantly since Lefty took over the helm. No longer does an NHL trainer just sharpen skates and dispense equipment. Such sophisticated procedures as ultrasound therapy, whirlpool baths and hot and cold pack machines have entered the dressing room which necessitate constant attendance at seminars and consultations with team physicians.

Lefty was the first president of the NHL Trainers' Association and now serves on its Board of Directors. It is at the meetings of this group, the National Athletic Trainers' Association, and other seminars that many new ideas and innovations have been discussed prior to finding their way into the Wings' Training Room.

Dan Olesevich joined the Wings prior to the 1959-60 season as Lefty's assistant. He continues those duties along with the added responsibilities that accompany the title of Head Equipment Manager. "Ole", as he is known around the dressing room, is responsible for the purchase and maintenance of all equipment – a big order that annually includes 1500 hockey sticks, 50 pair of personalized skates, two complete sets of uniforms and an endless array of the other hockey paraphernalia. Ole is also a member of the NHL Trainers' Association and is the past secretary-treasurer of District 10 of the National Athletic Trainers' Association.

The third member of the Wings' Training Room staff is the amiable Tommy Lynch. Tom joined the Lefty-Ole duo prior to the '71-'72 campaign and has since become an integral part of the operation. His 25-plus years of hockey experience is of invaluable aid as the behind-the-scenes job of icing a hockey team goes on, too often unnoticed.

BOB LEMIEUX
General Manager and Coach

Color the 1972-73 season success for the Virginia Red Wings. The Tidewater-area team acquitted themselves extremely well in their second season of operation with a strong third-place finish and a great showing in the AHL Playoffs. They extended the Calder Cup winners, Cincinnati to six games before bowing out of the semi-finals. Not bad for a team that finished dead last the first season.

More importantly for the Red Wings, a number of players blossomed into top NHL prospects and showed signs of fulfilling the plans of the Detroit management — namely producing stars within the Red Wing system.

The 1973-74 season finds Bob Lemieux in a new position as General Manager and Coach at Virginia.

Only 28, Bob has been gaining experience at the executive level since retiring as a player three years ago. Transferred by the Detroit Hockey Club from Fort Worth during the summer, Bob brings with him experience as a coach, general manager and all-around organizer.

It will continue to be a family effort with Mariette Lemieux serving as Administrative Assistant to her husband in the operation of the Virginia franchise.

MORRIS SNIDER
General Manager

If the success of the Port Huron Wings can be used as a barometer, the Detroit Red Wings' future is rosy. Operating as a Red Wing affiliate since the 1970-71 season, the International League franchise has won the Turner Cup twice, making the Finals in the third year. General Manager Morris Snider has supplemented Red Wing-supplied players with his own to form a winning combination each year. He has been the Hockey Club's GM since 1969.

BOBBY McCAMMON
Coach

Succeeding Red Wing Coach Ted Garvin at Port Huron is 32-year-old Bobby McCammon. An eleven-year IHL veteran, Bobby hung up his skates in June when he was named to fill the vacancy created by Garvin's elevation. This past season Bobby was the IHL's Most Valuable Defenseman and was a First Team All-Star.

The most comprehensive coverage of Red Wing Hockey in history is served up this season as WKBD-TV, WJR-Radio, and NBC sports combine to follow the Wings.

WKBD-TV (channel 50) will carry 28 Wings' road games with the dean of American Hockey Broadcasters, Budd Lynch, teaming with Larry Adderley in describing the action. While Larry adds the color to Budd's play-by-play commentary, another familiar member of the Detroit broadcasting scene, Vince Doyle, anchors the telecasts between periods from the studio.

Radio coverage is provided for all Red Wing games by Detroit's Power Station for Sports, WJR (dial 760). The resonant voice of Bruce Martyn is heard at this new address calling all the action with newcomer, Len Hardman, handling the color duties.

Additionally, the Red Wings will be seen nationally on at least three occasions as a part of the NBC (Game of the Week) telecasts. Tim Ryan, Ted Lindsay and Brian MacFarlane are again the network hosts.
